

Subscribe!

Advertise Your Event!

Who's In the Loop?

Chicago Theatre Week 2014

Posted on February 11th, by ladiesintheloop in Art, Culture, Music/ Dance. No Comments

Any shopper will tell you that this is the best time of year to get a sweet deal, but whoe knew that in Chicago this extended to restaurants and even the theater?! We may have had one brutal winter but like any true Midwestern lady, this will not keep us down and coped up for months at a time! After our last post about Chicago Restaurant Week, we are thrilled to follow up the occasion and announce that Chicago Theater Week starts TODAY!

This event is happening and there are more than 100 productions all over the city to prove that Chicago really IS “the current theatre capital of America!!” What’s even more thrilling is that prices for each show are only $15 or $30. That’s right, only $15 or $30!!! So whether you are celebrating Valentine’s with someone special or having a solo night to treat yourself, this week is THE week to get out there and see something new!

Visit ChicagoTheatreWeek.com for tickets and more information.

RECENT COMMENTS

Naomi Baskins on Don't Miss—Ebony Fashion Fair Exhibit: Through Jan. 2014

Eliane on Free Salsa and LIVE Afro-Cuban Music by Angel d’Cuba: 7/28

Inga Schaeffer on How to Cut Your Own Hair

Chance Garstka on How to Cut Your Own Hair

wyrobymetonowe on Fiesta del Sol! 7/26-29th

RECENT POSTS

Chicago Theatre Week 2014

Flamenco Show + Dinner at Cafe BaBaReeba

Opening the Vaults: Wonders of the 1983 World’s Fair

Restaurant Week 2014

Last Call for Art & Appetite

Navigation tags: 2014, Chicago, Chicagotheraterweek, Chicagotheratreweek, Event, Events, February, LadiesintheLoop, Multicultural, Womens